Orient Blackswan Private Limited, leading publishers of academic books, in collaboration with Akmin Technologies, providers of website building solutions, is launching a new product for students, websiteforever.

This is being done just before the summer vacations to enable children to utilise their time to learn a new skill.

Websiteforever is an easy-to-use, award winning website builder that gives students the experience of creating safe and amazing academic and personal websites, all by themselves

With the advanced user-friendly tools available in this software, making websites with multiple pages, pictures, animations, hit counters, feedback forms, and date and time stamp is as simple as making a power point presentation.

With websiteforever students can create personal websites (for instance me, my hobbies, my family, a holiday experience) as well as websites for academic assignments and school projects (for instance global warming, solar system, historical monuments), which they can share with teachers, family and friends.

It is aimed at upper primary, middle and secondary school students and will be of special interest to schools that follow the pattern of CCE (continuous comprehensive evaluation).

As safety and misuse is a concern for parents, websiteforever provides several safety features such as parental control password, and automatic and manual scanning of text and pictures uploaded to prevent indecent usage.

Students can simply log on to www.students.websiteforever.com and get started with a 15-day trial.
